

FROM THE BEGINNING

A HISTORY OF COOGEE PREP

On the outbreak of the Great War in 1914, Bill Nimmo founded Coogee Prep in the heart of Randwick. After fifty years as Headmaster, 'Old Bill' handed over to one of his Old Boys, Nick Brown, who remains at the helm thirty years later. This book tells the story of the only surviving independent prep school in Australia and of its founder. It will appeal to all who have an association with the school and to those with an interest in past and present methods of education.

MARGARET CAMERON was born in Sydney and went to school in Mittagong and California. She has a degree in law from the University of Sydney and a certificate in horticulture from the Royal Horticultural Society of London. Her first work, Supreme and District Court Practice, was published in 1982. Her sons, Hugh and Sandy, are Old Boys of Coogee Prep.
